ANNOUNCEMENT: U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Seattle District Headquarters is Moving to a New Building on the Same Property

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is moving its Seattle District office to a new building (Building 1202) located west of the existing offices in Building 1201 at 4735 E. Marginal Way South in Seattle, Washington. Moving starts November 27, 2012 and will be completed on December 10, 2012.

Customers and visitors are advised to call ahead to confirm meeting location and access between November 27, 2012 and December 10, 2012.

Visitor parking will continue to be available in the existing visitor lot just north of Federal Center South on the west side of E. Marginal Way S. and across the street east of the Federal Center South complex. Visitors who park in these lots or who travel to the site via the bus, will need to access the new building by entering the former Corps offices in Building 1201 and requesting an escort by calling the destination office from a cell phone or from the Building 1201 guard's desk.

If you need to park closer to the new building in the secure parking area, you will need to obtain prior approval from our Security Office. Please coordinate with us several days in advance to obtain this approval and access. Once approved, the guards at the secured parking entrance will be authorized to grant you entry. The entrance to the secure parking area is off of Diagonal Avenue S. The front entrance to Building 1202 is inside the secure parking area and is clearly marked.
